Donation supports Green Jobs

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Bendigo – November 29th 2010

Viatek recently joined forces with CVGT donating seven computers to assist young job seekers develop skills for the emerging green and climate change related industries.

CVGT General Manager Employment Services Mark Little said this donation by Viatek will assist our National Green Jobs Program (NGJC), Team Leaders in the field to administer our projects at a local level and provide opportunities for young people to access online job positions in the field of conservation and natural resource management.

Viatek Operations Manager Peter Bull said, sustainability underpins the Viatek business and we strive to continuously improve our performance across social, environmental and economic criteria. Our contribution to the NGJC program, delivered by CVGT, gives us an opportunity to demonstrate our commitment to the environment and our support of the community that supports us.

Viatek feels that the community involvement, work experience and green skills training that the NGJC program offers to young job seekers makes it a very worthy project to support says Peter Bull.

CVGT is grateful for the donation provided by Viatek and looks forward to a successful and sustainable partnership throughout the NGJC contract says Mark Little.

National Green Jobs Corps is the Australian Government's environmentally focused work experience and accredited training program for 17–24 year olds. As Australia moves forward towards a low pollution future, National Green Jobs Corps will provide young job seekers with opportunities to develop skills in emerging green and climate change related industries.
